Air Force Assistance Fund campaign ends May 1

This year's Air Force Assistance Fund "Commitment to Caring" campaign, which began Feb. 9 and ends May 1, provides Airmen the opportunity to contribute to any of the four official Air Force charitable organizations.

Now in its 36th year, 100 percent of designated AFAF contributions benefit active-duty, Reserve, Guard, retired Air Force people, surviving spouses and families.

People can contribute through cash, check, money order or payroll deduction to the following organizations:

- The Air Force Aid Society provides Airmen and their families with worldwide emergency financial assistance, education assistance and an array of base level community enhancement programs.
- The Air Force Enlisted Village charity supports the Bob Hope and Teresa Villages as well as the Hawthorne House. The fund provides homes and financial assistance to widows and widowers (55 and older) of retired enlisted people.
- The Air Force Villages charity supports the Air Force Village in San Antonio and Village II in the Texas Hill Country, as well as life-care communities for retired officers, spouses, widows or widowers, and family members.
- The General and Mrs. Curtis E. LeMay Foundation provides rent and financial assistance to widows and widowers of officers and enlisted people in their own homes and communities.

Contributions to the AFAF are tax deductible. For more information, visit the Air Force Assistance Fund's Web site at <http://afassistancefund.org/>.

Local installation project officers and unit representatives are available to provide more information on these charities and ways to contribute to the AFAF.
